

"Hats Off" caused a decided sensation at the play house when the military opening was held in the stalls, much to the joy (?) of the folk who had paid their money to see the people on the stage. The people who sat adjacent say that the hats were gorgeous, except that they could see them at an ordinary opening for nothing, whereas the view at the theatre cost them the sum of $2 each on this occasion.

It is suggested that the management might simplify matters a little by having a proper place in which to remove wraps and have them cared for, but it is doubtful if any woman selfish enough to deprive others of a look at the stars on the stage would be willing to trust her headgear to a place of safety. Of course there is always the state law, thanks to an unselfish woman who was given to the wearing of very good hats, but who had also that rarer virtue, consideration for others.

Quite the most important affair of the week socially is the University club dance to be given Wednesday evening. The long suspension of pleasant events at the club makes the affair doubly welcome to the members and also to their friends.

"Sweet Charity" will be the object of an entertainment to be given Tuesday afternoon at the First Methodist Episcopal church when Mrs. Charles G. Plummer will speak on "My Trip to Alaska," illustrating her talk with articles brought as souvenirs of her trip, and Miss Agatha Berkhof will sing some Indian songs.

CURRENT EVENTS IN LOCAL SOCIETY

One of the interesting weddings of the week was that of Miss Verna McAllister of Logan to Lieutenant Robert J. Linford, whose home is in Indiana. The marriage took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McAllister, and was attended by only the members of the family. The home was beautifully decorated for the event, roses and chrysanthemums being used. White and green alone were the colors chosen for the dining-room, where a wedding breakfast was served before the departure of the young people for San Francisco and later for Monterey, where the groom is stationed with the Twentieth infantry. The bride wore a going-away gown of brown broadcloth. Mr. and Mrs. Binford will shortly be at home at the Presidio of Monterey.

afternoon, when Mrs. Morris L. Ritchie and Professor F. R. Arnold presented the topics of the day. Mrs. Ritchie, who has only recently returned from a stay of one year in Paris, gave a talk on that city, bringing the realities of the spot before her hearers as no written article could have done. Mrs. Ritchie began with a general statement of the differences existing between the conditions there. She said the life one sees on the street is the whole of the life seen by a foreigner in Paris, the city of paradoxes where extreme luxury and discomfort are so skillfully combined. The speaker told of the unsanitary conditions existing even in the best parts of Paris, and of the almost universal custom of tempering the unwholesome water with wine. She said in spite of the amount of drinking she saw almost no drunkenness. The shopping experiences, the affairs of Children's Day.

There will be no meeting of the current events and current literature section next Friday, but the day, being a fifth Friday, will be given to a special club meeting for the children. Mrs. C. E. Richards will have charge of the special program, assisted by Mrs. Morris L. Ritchie and Mrs. Ledyard Bailey. While Mrs. A. H. Peabody will furnish music by the children of the club members. The story to be illustrated with the living pictures of children is "A Thanksgiving Lesson," written by Mrs. Ritchie, into which she has introduced many of the best-known child characters in fiction, both ancient and modern. These thought children will be impersonated by local children shown in a large picture frame, while the story is read by Mrs. Ledyard Bailey. Those who will render musical numbers are Marion Hooper, Ross Hutchinson, Lucy Lewis, Marie Gorman, Margaret Harris, Alfred Peabody and John Putnam.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Athenaeum of Park City was held Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. M. Wilson. head carpenter who showed her that he had managed the building so closely that he had cleared only a small wage by the job.

Mrs. Smith says her club has done a little of everything from the study of a purely literary organization to the cleaning of back alleys and the establishment of a real domestic science school. This latter was accomplished by employing a skilled teacher to give lessons two evenings a week for the factory and servant girls, the girls paying a sum of 5 cents for the food used. These lessons were kept up by the club for over two years, till the university established a similar department.

The club has also offered prizes to the children in the public schools for the best gardens, and this has resulted in transforming the school yards into beautiful parks in many instances. All lines of civic improvement have been followed by the club, and with a marked degree of success. Mrs. Smith was formerly interested in mines in Park City, and has visited there in years past.
